

Attachment 1: Examples for the upgraded communication and higher transparency of occasions, which concerns the students:

Communication of construction work activities, which concern the students directly.

Due to extensive construction work on the campus and the university hospital and due to the construction noise, the large lecture hall has become unusable. The deanship decided to build a lightweight hall as a makeshift-arrangement for a lecture hall.

Student`s resentment against the construction noise could be attenuated: PULS had informed them about solutions and measures taken by the deanship.

Problems and barriers were also communicated to illustrate the complexity of this matter. All information was coordinated with the dean and the construction department.

Another example is the demolition and new construction of the students communication centre. In this case reports were coordinated with the students and the building department. In addition, „Puls.“ could contact the ALUMNI, who were very interested in this construction project.
